Book Synopsis:

Nearly every human endeavor was conceived with a relatively stable climate in mind. But new climate disasters expose the deep dysfunction of our relationship with water. In this quietly radical book, science journalist Erica Gies introduces us to innovators in what she calls the Slow Water movement who start by asking a revolutionary question: What does water want? Using close observation, historical research, and cutting-edge science, experts in hydrology, restoration ecology, engineering, and urban planning are transforming our relationship with water. By putting these new approaches to the test, innovators in the Slow Water movement are reshaping the future.

Sponsor and support our 9th annual mixer and fundraiser to benefit Water For People! Water For People works to overcome the world water crisis by providing sustainable, clean drinking water and sanitation systems to people in developing countries with well organized, repeatable, proven delivery systems.

Sponsors will receive complimentary tickets to the event, as well as social media posts and other publicity, such as links on both Water For People and BAWWA websites. By supporting this event, you support Water For People - a great cause that works to create access to safe drinking water and improved sanitation for everyone!

For more information about available sponsorship opportunities, please contact Sophia Skoda, Sponsorship Chair, at Sophia.Skoda@EBMUD.com.
